Lisbon, January 3, N. S.

HIS Britannick Majesty's Ships the Vigilant and Pembroke, two of Rear-Admiral Boscawen's Squadron, having repaired the Damages they received in a Storm, are to sail from hence To-morrow Morning, in order to rejoin the said Squadron. Count Rosenberg, Minister from Vienna to this Court, is preparing to return Home, and M. Stolte his Secretary is to remain here with the Character of Resident. His Portuguese Majesty's State of Health continues much the same. No Person is yet named to succeed the late Cardinal de Motta, as Prime Minister. Letters from Madrid mention, that a great Number of Officers were arrived there from the Army in Italy, which had begun to separate for Winter-Quarters, and that Dispositions were making to keep the Infante Don Philip well supplied with Men and Money, to enable him to open the Campaign early in the Spring; but that notwithstanding the whole Kingdom ardently wished for Peace.

Hague, January 15, N. S. The Expectations of an immediate Attack are greatly diminished, a Reinforcement of Troops having been ordered to the Neighbourhood of Breda, and other Measures taken to prevent the Execution of the Enemy's Designs; and though the Frost is excessively hard, yet it is thought the French will not make any Attempt. The Province of Guelderland has agreed to the Hereditary Stadtholdership, and given the Prince of Orange the same Powers, as those with which the late King William was invested.
